The Great Victory Clothing Sale

Union Clothing Company

There has never occurred since the Civil War a period when the prices on merchandise have reached such a high level, which has obliged people to postpone the buying of goods really needed. Adding to the high prices, money has been freely loaned to the government for the final prosecution of the war, increasing the impossibility of buying. On our side, the merchants, in order to protect their customers from the continual raising of prices, had to buy heavier than usual, so as to offer good values to the public, and now we find ourselves overstocked in every department.

After the victorious end of the war, conditions of the market still show an increase in prices of from 10 to 15 per cent for next year's goods. This fact will destroy the wrong impression of some people that merchandise will be cheaper in a short time.

The Union Clothing Company has a reputation of giving to the public with the right spirit and at the right moment the opportunity and the advantages of real money saving. Our great sale at the time of the lockout, and our successive sales have always been important events for Barre; have proved to be on every occasion genuine and true transactions, which have added to the reputation of our store.

Now, to-day, we do not want to keep goods which we bought when the prices of the market were lower. We want to clean our shelves right away at prices a good deal lower than at which we have been selling this winter. Customers know very well that we have been selling good merchandise cheaper than other stores and they will have for the remainder of January the chance to buy Overcoats, Suits, Furnishings and Shoes at such tempting prices as will attract the public to fill their wants.

Nothing reserved! Every article will be sold at less than actual wholesale price! This sale's values are even greater than ever before. Buy freely and be sure to get your share. A glimpse at the prices below will give to the public an idea of the REAL, WORTHY BARGAINS which we offer.
